Berryessa, Alviso and North San Jose need a strong voice in City Hall and a champion for our neighborhoods. My roots go deep into our community. As a product of Berryessa public schools, I graduated from Piedmont Hills High School. I served as a St. Victor's Church Youth Minister and coached in the North Valley United Youth Soccer League.

As a community college instructor, I know the value of education and public service. Currently, as a Legislative Aide to State Senator Bob Wieckowski, I have the knowledge and experience necessary to get things done to better District 4. As an active member of neighborhood groups, including the Berryessa Citizens Advisory Council and the Berryessa Business Association, I understand our community and our need for vibrant local businesses serving our neighborhoods.

We must work together to invest in public safety, promote economic growth and jobs, advocate for affordable housing, and support neighborhood revitalization that enhances our quality of life. I have been endorsed by business owners, environmental groups, labor leaders, educators, public safety officers and many elected officials. I would appreciate your vote to give our communities a strong, active, and experienced representative on the City Council. For more information: www.timorozco.com.

I have lived, worked, and volunteered in District 4 for more than 35 years. As a journalist for almost three decades, I have held public officials accountable to the people and provided our community with resources to help improve their quality of life. I am not a career politician, but I understand how government works.

Our city faces many challenges in the years ahead. I have the experience and the passion to tackle these challenges with the support of our community. I want to ensure that San José is a place where all hard-working people can thrive in a safe and vibrant environment.

My family and I came to America as refugees after the fall of South Vietnam in 1975. We had to start our lives from scratch, in a new land and a new language. America has given me the opportunity to finish law school, to start my own business, and to raise three children to be responsible and productive citizens.

Now, it is my turn to give back. That is why I am running for City Council. I would be honored to have your support. Please visit my website at www.ManhNguyenForCouncil.com to learn more.
